

So you want to be an apprentice or trainee? We can help!

If you want to give your career a kick start, an apprenticeship or traineeship is a great way to get ahead and earn while you learn.

Once you've completed your apprenticeship or traineeship, you'll have the expertise, experience and qualification you need to take the next step in your career or further your education.

Benefits of becoming an apprentice or trainee

- Earn while you learn
- Get personalised mentor support throughout your training
- Gain fundamental workplace skills you can take with you to future jobs, or formalise your current skills and experience
- Access potential Government financial support and personal benefits
- Competency-based training means you may be able to complete your qualification faster
- Choose from a wide range of nationally accredited apprenticeship and traineeship qualifications across all industries

What's the difference between an apprenticeship and a traineeship?

| Apprenticeships | Traineeships |
|---|---|
| How long does an apprenticeship take? Between 36 to 48 months depending on the qualification. | How long does a traineeship take? Between 12 and 24 months depending on the qualification. |
| Which industries offer apprenticeships? Trade areas (including building and construction), commercial cookery, automotive, engineering, manufacturing and more. | Which industries offer traineeships? Service industries such as business, retail, community health, childcare, hair and beauty, financial services, and more. |

Not just for school-leavers...

Whether you're returning to the workforce, changing your profession or just looking to formalise your skills, you can benefit from becoming an apprentice or trainee.

With many employers looking for the life experience and reliability adult apprentices bring to the workplace, people of all ages are now turning to apprenticeships and traineeships as a great way to advance their career.

Which apprenticeship or traineeship is right for you?

Becoming an apprentice or trainee is the best way to combine paid work with structured training and gain a nationally accredited qualification. But what if you're not sure which industry or profession is right for you?

We can help with that too!

| I'm good at... | I want to analyse data and solve complex problems | I want to be practical and make things | I want to work outside | I want to work in a team and support others |
